UNIVERSITY OF BELGRADE

Studies in multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary graduate study fields have been organized by the University of Belgrade since 1970.

The University of Belgrade has organized multi- and interdisciplinary doctoral study programs since the Center was established in 1970.

Multi- and interdisciplinary master academic studies have been organized by the University of Belgrade since 2001.

STUDIES

MULTIDISCIPLINARY GRADUATE STUDIES

The Center for Multidisciplinary Graduate Studies was established by the decision of the Council of the University of Belgrade, passed on May 18, 1970, at the proposal of the School of Medicine and the Faculty of Mathematics, as a "scientific and educational unit of the University, which will satisfy the joint needs of different faculties within the University...". The decision was ratified by the Parliament of the Socialist Republic of Serbia on July 10, 1970. Ever since it was established, the Center has conducted research and organization of graduate studies in multidisciplinary areas.

Since 1970 until the present day, multidisciplinary programs organized by the University have seen 770 magister scientiae graduates, 142 doctoral studies graduates and 489 master studies graduates. The courses within the respective study programs are being held by 200 teachers and associates of the University of Belgrade.

Today, multidisciplinary academic studies (master academic and doctoral studies) have been organized through the University's Council for Multidisciplinary Graduate Studies and the University Senate.

MASTER

MASTER ACADEMIC STUDIES

The first master program of the kind, organized at the University was a study program in the English language titled State Management and Humanitarian Affairs, jointly organized with the University of Sarajevo and Sapienza University of Rome.

Today, master studies have been organized within more than one study program, with a very high interest of potential students.
